Do You Deserve More Money?

Learn more about the
Earned Income Tax Credit
Child Tax Credit

The Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is a special tax credit that can reduce the amount of taxes you owe and can even give you a refund.

Who may claim the EITC?

You may be able to claim the Earned Income Tax Credit if you were employed in 2004 and you:

- earned less than $34,458 and have two or more qualifying children;
- earned less than $30,338 and have one qualifying child;
- earned less than $11,490 and have no qualifying children, and are between the ages of 25 and 64.

How much money can you get from the EITC?

The amount of the credit depends on the amount you earn and the number of children you have living with you. (See chart below for examples.)

How do I get the EITC?

You must file a 2004 income tax return to receive the EITC.

- If you have a qualifying child, you must file a federal tax return 1040 or 1040A and attach the IRS Schedule EIC.
You can get these tax forms at post offices, libraries, and IRS offices or by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

Child Tax Credit Information

What is the Child Tax Credit?

- The Child Tax Credit (CTC) is a federal tax credit worth up to $1000 per child in the 2004 tax year.
- Congress enacted new rules that took effect in 2001. Now millions of additional low- and middle-income families are eligible for the CTC, even if they owe no income tax.

Who may claim the CTC?

Families with income earned above $10,750 who claim dependent children under the age of 17 on their 2004 tax return may now qualify for the Child Tax Credit (CTC).
